

THE FISH IN THE SEA—A DOUBTFUL CONSOLATION FOR THE TRUE LOVER

Of With the Old Love and On With the New Is Sometimes Easier Said Than Done.

By ELLEN ADAIR

THERE are no good fish in the sea as ever were caught. This dear old bromide is on the lips of every amateur consoler of amatory misery.

And so you determined to smash the accustomed mirror whose back was quilted with a flake of cement.

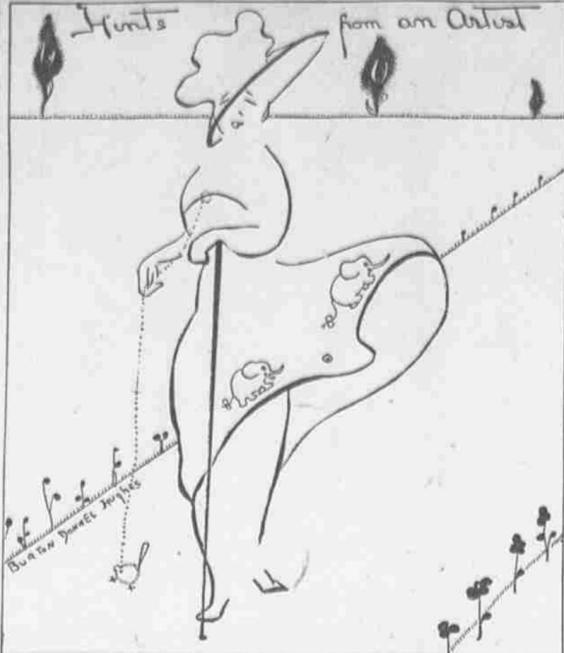

'Tis next day when your confidants begin to employ the balm that is supposed to lie in the previously mentioned respiratory parallel.

But let us think. Have you ever considered the limited range of focus of one individual? Fixing our love-laden glances on the person who has an option on our heart, the rest of the sex is nonexistent for us.

And yet we perpetually hear the despairing cry of the poor unphilosophic sufferer on the sands of love, who, consumed with envy at the rich catch of his rival, does not perceive the fathomless, spreading sweep of that ocean in which "there are as good fish as ever were caught."

The old glove fitted us so comfortably and served us well, but let us not forget that every old glove has its fellow. The new glove in time becomes soft and smooth with those associations which are the dearest attributes of friendship.

But the dread event happened. You had evidence of the defection in the word of a kind friend who hastened to you upon observing him in the baleful re-

How to be large yet elegant. Move majestically, don't sigh or endeavor to pick up anything you drop. Don't attempt to cross your limbs in public.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE ON THESE BUSY SUMMER DAYS

Chill a pitcher of freshly made tea of the desired strength, sweeten with orange syrup instead of sugar, being careful not to get too sweet.

Cut off the very tips of asparagus stalks. Cut the remainder of the stalks into half-inch lengths and boil.

A Portland woman stood on her back porch recently sousing a stiff silk skirt up and down in a bath of gasoline.

Soak over night in one quart of water to which two teaspoonfuls of salt have been added, one pound of thoroughly washed cat's brains.

The woman escaped with scorched arms and bruises, the latter caused by falling down the steps backward in her fright and endeavoring to get away from the flames.

White shoes in the city were once considered in bad taste, but not so now, and this summer there are some that are especially suitable to the city streets.

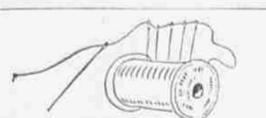

The explanation was offered that the crackling silk generated electric sparks and set fire to the gasoline.

To try to get through the summer in the city without one dark street costume would be difficult.

Boil in a quart of water for an hour two sliced potatoes, a sliced carrot, a slice of turnip and an onion.

Prize Suggestions

A prize of $1 will be awarded daily for the best practical suggestion. No suggestions will be returned.

A prize of $1 has been awarded to Mrs. R. Hughes, 624 North 6th street, Camden, N. J., for the following suggestion: Threading needles is often hard work for an elderly lady, so try my method of obviating the difficulty.

Ways to Preserve Flowers

The first way is with sand, and it is extremely important that the sand be absolutely free from any foreign matter, and this state of perfection is brought about by repeated washings.

The flowers must be dry before being treated, and the best results are with blossoms of a bright color, such as pansies, roses, geraniums, violets, tulips, etc.

Crossing the Bar

Sunset and evening star, And one clear call for me! And may there be no moaning of the bar, When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep, Too full for sound or foam, When that which drew from out the deep, Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell, And after that the dark! And may there be no sadness of farewell, When I embark.

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place The flood may bear me far, I hope to see my Pilot face to face When I have crossed the bar.—Alfred Tennyson.

Tommy Tittle-mouse Starts Exploring

THE morning after Tommy Tittle-mouse had been so frightened about the bees taking his home, he wakened feeling very brave and happy.

at the world. And what do you suppose he saw the very first thing? A giant? A fairy? A—oh, you never could guess!

He saw a spider! A great, beautiful black and gold spider.

hidden! Tommy didn't know whether to be afraid or not. So he decided to speak very softly and see if the spider was friendly—and he was.

"Never fear! Never fear, little mate," replied Tommy considerably; "I will be very careful. Don't you remember that kind Mr. Garden Toad told us only last evening that the garden was now safe and comfortable? That there was no danger that could come to me? It seems to me that now, while everything is so safe, is the best time for me to look about and learn as much as I can. But I will be careful."

Mrs. Tommy, who was so interested in her home, in making every nook and corner of the nest just so fine and snug, and in her plans and hopes, could hardly realize how much Tommy, sitting there by the front door by the hear, had heard about the world outside.

Tommy was so proud of himself and his bravery he wished Mrs. Tommy was there beside him to tell him all over again that he was a wonderful Tittle-mouse.

He scurried down safely under a big broad leaf and then peeped out to look

SIX-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS BROUGHT BACK TO HEALTH BY SWIMMING

Little Dorothy Klump, Failing Despite Medical Treatment, Quickly Responds to Exhilarating Exercise.

After Eight Months' Training She Swims Mile in Schuylkill River in Remarkably Good Time—Experts Predict Great Future for Her.

MRS. C. D. KLUMP AND DAUGHTER, DOROTHY

The remarkable progress toward physical perfection attained by little Dorothy Klump the last eight months by means of a course in swimming demonstrates the effectual results to be attained by this exhilarating exercise.

This 6-year-old tot, failing in health and a source of worry to her parents, showed no signs of improvement under medical treatment, when her mother, Mrs. Henriette Klump, decided to try a treatment of her own.

Dorothy was sent to the Philadelphia Turngemeinde and placed in the care of a swimming instructor. What has been the result? Look at the accompanying picture of her. Is not her clear, keen eye enough to convince you that she is healthful now? Look at her chest.

Doesn't it look as though Dorothy is enjoying life? Well, she is, and her mother declares she is the happiest woman in the world.

"My Dorothy caused us no end of worry until eight months ago. She showed no desire to eat at meal time and as a consequence, her physical development suffered. We consulted physicians, but they could do nothing for her.

DECIDES TO TRY SWIMMING. Then, after we had almost given up hope, an idea came to me. I used to do a great deal of swimming and found that it proved both beneficial and interesting. I decided to try this remedy as a last resort.

I took Dorothy to a competent swimming instructor. She was very timid at first. She refused to be taught and often cried when it was time for her to take her lesson.

"Then, suddenly, the child changed. She wanted to go to the tank every day. She became infatuated with the water. She began to eat more regularly and soon gained weight. Her complexion improved wonderfully and she became more lively.

"I knew that the swimming was doing it. She insisted upon going to the pool every day, but I only permitted her to go twice a week. She not only improved in health, but showed such rapid development that her instructor decided to try her at long-distance swimming.

"We are overjoyed at the improvement she has shown, and both my husband and myself attribute it to nothing else save the exercise she gained in swimming. I would advise all mothers of sickly children to follow my example. I know they will never regret it."

SWIMS A MILE IN SCHUYLKILL. A few days ago Dorothy swam a mile

35 Letters in His Name. DUQUOIN, Ill., July 9.—Demetrios Papathorakoumountorgotopoulou, 535 15th street, Moline, Ill., has been declared the winner of a long name contest conducted by clerks of the post office here.

Polygamy Exists, Says Mormon Head. OGDEN, Utah, July 9.—Polygamy exists in the United States; plural marriages are still being entered into, Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon Church, testified today in the suit of Mrs. Margaret Geddes to establish her claim for her 18-year-old son Albert in the estate of the late millionaire, Daniel Eccles.

PLEXO CREAMS advertisement. Includes text: 'For the Woman Who Cares', 'Greasless Cream', 'Cleansing Cream', 'Plexo Evening White', and 'PLEXO PREPARATIONS INC. 94 N. MOORE ST. N.Y.C.'

SIMPLICITY EVER THE KEYNOTE OF FASHIONABLE CHILDREN'S DRESSES

THE little girl of today whose summer is spent at one of the Maine resorts needs warm, practical clothing. Most of the shops are showing light, flimsy or pique costumes of all kinds, but it is a really difficult matter to find a becoming and useful cloth dress.

The pinafore style is fashionable for little folks this season. Variations on the theme are seen, such as Mother Hubbard dresses, short romping dresses and similar designs.

Combination of two or more materials is also a fashionable form of trimming these plain dresses. Plaids and striped materials are used with a light background for everyday wear.

A navy blue gabardine smock is shown in today's illustration. It has a light blue trim, which are detachable for laundering purposes.

A CHILD'S DRESS IN NAVY AND WHITE

Highest Ideals of Childhood As Shown by Photographs of Pennsylvania Children

Next Sunday's Intaglio

So great was the interest in the Public Ledger's Child Welfare Exhibit that more than two thousand photographs of children, up to 12 years of age, were sent in.

The final decision of the judges has been made and announced. Next Sunday the Public Ledger will reproduce these photographs of the

Eight Gold Medal Winners

Here will be a picture well worth keeping and framing—a picture of the prize children of the nation's Keystone State.

There will, of course, be a greater-than-usual demand for this issue of the Ledger. To be certain you get your copy, better see your dealer at once and tell him to put you down for a copy of the

Sunday, July 11th

PUBLIC LEDGER

PEARL BORAX SOAP advertisement. Includes text: 'SAFETY FIRST', 'Economical—because it lasts longer. Safest—because it is pure and white. Most satisfactory—because it makes everything bright and clean.'